Dual Integration

We are watching recent developments in conflict areas with great concern and sadness. Many people are forced to leave their homes and we support the decision of the Federal Government of Germany to help the refugees. We, the University of Cooperative Education of Saxony, call upon all German citizens to meet these people, who experienced tragedy and loss, with humanity, tolerance and sympathy while they are adapting to our culture. Let us help them to settle in.

Saxony has an extensive exchange with other nations in economic as well as scientific matters. Education knows no frontiers, education builds bridges between cultures. The University of Cooperative Education with its seven locations in Saxony stands for a policy of open-mindedness and tolerance. To fill this policy with life we are particularly involved in the following areas:

- We inform and advise about study opportunities in the dual system.
- We encourage refugees to enrol for dual study courses and – together with the Saxon Ministry for Science and Art – we help with the recognition of degrees from abroad.
- We furnish preparation courses for refugees to qualify them for a dual course of studies.
- We provide entrance examinations for an individual start into a dual course of studies.
- We help find suitable partner companies.
- We offer refugees, who want to continue studying, the option of attending courses as auditors.
- We create platforms for students to facilitate intercultural exchange.
- We aid integration by promoting intercultural skills and offering German language courses.

Opportunity! Dual Integration – this is the leitmotif with which we open our dual study programmes for people from other countries and cultures.
